Trial at Earliest Possible Day.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 20.—The Senate special committee appointed to make provision for the Swayne trial held a session to-day for the purpose of considering the method of proceeding with the case. There also was some reference to the question of the time when the trial shall occur, and all the members of the committee agreed that regardless of the legal requirements. Judge Swayne was entitled to a trial at the earliest day possible. No definite conclusion was arrived at concerning the details of the proceedure, but the members were agreed that Judge Swayne should be officially notified of the charges as soon as they are formally made.

Speaker Cannon expects to appoint tomorrow the managers who are to conduct the prosecution of the Swayne impeachment before the Senate, in order that they may be ready to proceed promptly to the Senate the moment that body announces its readiness to take up the proceedings.

Mr. Frank P. Brent, secretary of the State Board of Education, has been asked by many friends why he did not become a candidate for superintendent of public instruction, upon the retirement from the contest of, Dr. Joseph W. Southall, the incumbent. Mr. Brent stated yesterday that he was favorable to the candidacy of Mr. John A. McGilvray and had urged him to run. Mr. McGilvray, he said, was eminently qualified for the position, and would, in his opinion, make an excellent superintendent.

Records Show Nelson Has Held Senatorship Longer

Than She.

Mr. Aubrey E. Strode, of Amherst, spent yesterday in Richmond, looking after some legal matters, and left last night for his home. When seen at the Richmond Hotel, Mr. Sirode expressed himself as pleased with his prospects for coming to the Senato this fall to succeed Hon, Bland Massic, this full to succeed Hon, Bland Massic, of Nelson.

He said he was receiving the most graticity of Nelson.

He said he was receiving the most graticity of the said he was receiving the most graticity of the said he was received the said he felt very hopeful that he would win his fight. Under the alternating rule between the two counties, it is held that Amherst should have the senator this time. An effort has been made to combat this idea, and to say that Nelson still has some time to her credit.

The facts shown by the record, however, are that since the district was formed, in 1859, Nelson has had the senatorship over twenty-two years and Amherst about fourteen. The details are these: The late Judge T. P. Fitzpatrick, of Nelson, was the first elected. He was succeeded by Hon. C. T. Smith, of Nelson, who held until 1831. Then came Judge Taylor Berry, of Amherst, and he served until 1895. Judge Brown, of Nelson, succeeded Judge Berry, and Senator Massic, of Nelson, has been in for the past eight years. This leaves about eight years to the credit of Amherst, if time is to be considered.

that white girls were being enticed to the house.

Two girls, one twelve and one fourteen, were found in the house and taken to the Second Police Station.

Captain Kerse questioned the children, and as the result of information obtained arrested George Wilkerson, the negro companion of Della Haynes, and Noralinks, an Indian woman, who lives on Ross Street, on the charge of being suspicious characters.

On Thursday night the two girls met Noralinks on the street, and upon her invitation accompanied her to the house of Della Haynes to hear some music. As soon as they entered the doors were locked, and after a whispered conversation between the negroes me man left the house. Shortly thereafter a white man, whose description is known to the police, knocked at the door and was admitted. The police are using every endeavor to effect the capture of this man, and there can be no doubt that he will be taken.

Last night the girls again visited Della Risynes's house, this time without Noralinks. Seen thereafter the police made the raid.

He said he had objected to having Apostles Cowley and Taylor, who had taken plural wives since the manifesto, sustained at the October conference. President Smith told him an inquiry would be made. The senator said he would not vote to sustain Taylor and Cowley If they were found to have taken plural wives since the manifesto. He said he did not think a polygamist should hold a government position, though eligible to a church position.

Not in Favor of Polygamy.

Not in Favor of Polygamy, Senator Smoot said that he had never advised or countenanced any man or woman to live in polygamy. He said he thought it best not to hold religious classes in school houses.

Taking up the charges in the protest, Mr. Worthington asked:

"Have you in any way since you became an apostle promulgated or advised the practice of polygamy?"

"It have not."

"It is charged that the president of the Mormon Church and a majority of the twelve apostles now practice polygamy and some have taken plural wives since 1890. Have you any knowledge on that subject, except that produced here?"

Cross-examination.
On cross-examination by Mr. Tayler, the senator said the manifesto made the impression on him that it was going to stop polygamy forever. He did not understand that it disparaged the doctrine of polygamy, but that it did disparage the practice. He said he believed the revelation in regard to polygamy was received by Joseph Smith, but did not believe in the practice of polygamy against the laws of the land.
Ouestioned by Chalrman Burrows, Mr.

Questioned by Chalrman Burrows, Mr. Smoot admitted President Smith was living in violation of the law, and that Apostic John Henry Smith, was doing the same, "He thought President Smith would be condemned if he abandoned his wives.

Senator Smoot took exception to the statement of John Henry Smith in re-gard to his position in the eyes of the law, so far as polygamy was concerned. The senator said he knew of many polyg-amists who were not living with their plural wives.

Burrows,

"More than likely it would."
Senator Overman asked if there was any reason why he (Smoot) should not have leave of absence rather than resign his apostleship.

"There was no reason why I should resign," Mr. Smoot replied.
Senator Burrows wanted to know if setion would be taken against him if he should have been a candidate for the Senate, had leave absence not been granted.

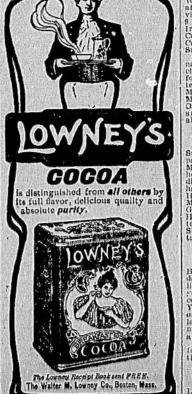

The witness did not think action of any kind would have been taken. It might have put him out of harmony with the church, but he had not considered this
